ITEM 5.02 DEPARTURE OF DIRECTORS OR CERTAIN OFFICERS; ELECTION OF DIRECTORS; APPOINTMENT OF CERTAIN OFFICERS; COMPENSATORY ARRANGEMENTS OF CERTAIN OFFICERS

On October 2, 2008, Bank of America Corporation ("Bank of America") announced that John Thain will be named president of Global Banking, Securities and Wealth Management, a newly created unit consisting what is now in Global Corporate and Investment Banking and most of what is now in Global Wealth and Investment Management, effective upon completion of the merger of Merrill Lynch & Co. ("Merrill Lynch") and Bank of America. Mr. Thain, age 53, has served as Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer of Merrill Lynch since December 2007. Prior thereto he served as Chief Executive Officer and a director of NYSE Euronext, Inc. and its predecessor companies, NYSE Group, Inc. and New York Stock Exchange Inc., from January 2004 until November 2007; President and Chief Operating Officer of The Goldman Sachs Group, Inc. from July 2003 to January 2004; and President and Co-Chief Operating Officer of The Goldman Sachs Group, Inc. from May 1999 to June 2003. Mr. Thain also is a director of BlackRock, Inc.

Also on October 2, 2008, Bank of America announced that Brian Moynihan, currently president of Global Corporate and Investment Banking, will become president of Private Equity and Global Operations, effective upon completion of the merger. Mr. Moynihan also will assume responsibility for the Bank of America private equity business, LaSalle Global Trust Services, Enterprise Technology and Delivery, Legal, and Supply Chain Management effective immediately. Mr. Moynihan will continue as president of Global Corporate and Investment Banking until the merger occurs.

Mr. Thain and Mr. Moynihan will assume their new positions upon completion of the merger. An Agreement and Plan of Merger dated as of September 15, 2008 (the "Merger Agreement") providing for the merger has been approved by the Boards of Directors of Bank of America and Merrill Lynch and is subject to customary closing conditions, including regulatory and stockholder approvals.

A copy of the press release announcing the events described above is attached as Exhibit 99.1 and is incorporated in this report by reference.

Additional Information About this Transaction

In connection with the proposed merger, Bank of America has filed with the SEC a Registration Statement on Form S-4 that includes a preliminary joint proxy statement of Bank of America and Merrill Lynch that also constitutes a prospectus of Bank of America. Bank of America and Merrill Lynch will mail the definitive joint proxy statement/prospectus to their respective stockholders. Bank of America and Merrill Lynch urge investors and security holders to read the definitive joint proxy statement/prospectus regarding the proposed merger when it becomes available because it will contain important information. Ken Lewis Announces John Thain Role With Bank of America

CHARLOTTE - Bank of America Chairman and Chief Executive Officer Ken Lewis today announced that John Thain, current chairman and chief executive officer of Merrill Lynch, will have a major role in the combined companies. Lewis also announced that Brian Moynihan will continue as president of Global Corporate and Investment Banking at Bank of America until the merger, and will take on a key newly created enterprise-wide role effective immediately.

Thain will become president of Global Banking, Securities and Wealth Management in the combined company once the merger is completed. His responsibilities will include what is now in Global Corporate and Investment Banking (GCIB) and most of what is now in Global Wealth and Investment Management (GWIM) at Bank of America which will be merged with similar functions at Merrill Lynch.

"I am delighted that John has agreed to join Bank of America," Lewis said. "His experience and expertise will be invaluable as we put our two companies together and move forward as the premier financial services company in the world."

"This is an opportunity to create what will be the leading financial institution in the world. Combining these two companies will create great value for our shareholders and clients around the world," said Thain. "I look forward to working with Ken and the business leaders at both companies as we build the world's premiere financial services firm."

Moynihan will continue as president of GCIB until the merger occurs. After that, he will become President of Private Equity and Global Operations reporting to Lewis. The Bank of America private equity business, LaSalle Global Trust Services, Enterprise Technology and Delivery, Legal, and Supply Chain Management will begin reporting to him immediately.

"Our company will look quite different after the merger," Lewis said. "I have asked Brian to lead an effort that will redefine our business model, taking into account the strengths of both predecessor companies and our extensive opportunities around the world. Brian's background in corporate development, wealth management and corporate and investment banking make him the ideal person to lead this initiative. As part of this effort, he is to ensure that we have optimized our infrastructure investments to drive growth in the merged company."

Moynihan will also be the Bank of America assessment business lead for the transition, working with Tom Sanzone, Merrill Lynch executive vice president and chief administrative officer, who will perform that function for Merrill Lynch. They will work to ensure that the companies come together in an optimum way to take advantage of future business opportunities. Jim Eckerle, current Enterprise Transition executive at Bank of America, will have that role responsible for effective and efficient transitions covering LaSalle, Countrywide and Merrill Lynch.
